42nd Annual Old Dominion University Literary Festival

CROSSING

OCTOBER 6 - 10

What can we learn from each other by examining our lives and stories, moving from the outside and coming in, opening a door, extending a hand?

What does it really cost to say something rather than nothing, to listen rather than yelp, then decide to take action rather than holding back?

We're living in an urgent time: a world on the brink, on the edge of possibility. We look to writers whose work reaches across our imaginary divides, who offer us ways to learn from the past and apply those lessons to the future.

How can we cross into new states of being without losing what we value? How is the threshold a gift? Let's listen and look again at this world because it is all we have to live in.

The 22nd Annual Banjo Gathering

OCTOBER 24 - 27

GOODE THEATRE AND GORDON ART GALLERIES

Since 1998, the Banjo Gathering has been the platform for banjo collectors, scholars, instrument builders and musicians to share new findings about the banjo as a historical, cultural and design object.

Set against the backdrop of Norfolk's 400-year role as a key port city, this year's themes — "Banjos Across the Water" and "Inspirations for Contemporary Banjos" — explore how banjo history is shaped by travel, commerce and industry across the world's waterways, and how contemporary makers use historical banjos as well as domestic and international art and design as inspiration for their instruments.

Visit banjogathering.com and ODUArtsTix.com for a detailed schedule of events.

Geometric Aljamía: A Cultural Transliteration

AUG. 24 – SEPT. 29

The medieval Spanish word aljamía refers to Romance languages written in Arabic script during the Golden Age of Islamic Civilization. This transliteration contributed to the spread of Islamic influences and the Arabic language throughout the Iberian Peninsula and beyond.

By understanding visual art as transliteration of one form of thought to another, artists Mohammad Saleh Amin, Jorge Benitez, Reni Gower, Hanane Korchi, Tamim Sahebzada and Julia Townsend explore connections between the Middle East and the West that remain vibrant today.

Recent Acquisitions: Works by Yuki Hiyama

AUG. 24 – OCT. 20

Artist Yuki Hiyama was born on December 17, 1977 in Hiroshima, Japan. Unable to speak due to a brain injury at birth, she discovered painting as a child and continues making art today.

Ms. Hiyama uses oil, acrylic, watercolor, gouache, pen, pencil, oil stick, pastel, and sand to create works full of color and texture, at times resembling Japanese Hiragana and Kanji characters as well as bodies, faces, and numerals.

Let Them Eat Cake: A Second Helping

OCT. 12 – NOV. 17

RECEPTION: OCT. 24, 6 – 8 P.M.

Glass captures the magnificence of light like no other medium. Lavish craftsmanship layered with rich color is a delectable delight, aching to be savored. But can extravagance in any form ever satisfy, or will it leave us always hungry for more?

Curated by Jennifer Detlefsen and Kimberly McKinnis, this exhibition features artists who use glass to explore excess, ego, voyeurism and overconsumption, while pushing the limits of ornamentation, creating a conversation about human desire and the delicate balance between decadence and degradation.

HOMEsick

OCT. 10 – 12 AND 16 – 19, 7:30 P.M.; OCT. 20, 2 P.M.

WRITTEN AND DIRECTED BY DEBORAH WALLACE

In conjunction with the 42nd Annual Literary Festival:
“Crossing Thresholds”

GOODE THEATRE

HOMEsick is an original work for theatre by Deborah Wallace, exploring the American mythology. Fourteen pioneers are on a wagon train heading west, in search of a new life; they find instead betrayal. This past being prologue, we fast-forward to the present day, where politicians travel the campaign trail, immigrants journey toward our border, addicts trip into opioid dreams – people are still looking for a place to call Home ... and betrayal is still around every corner, the Promised Land still elusive.

HOMEsick is an intimate and revealing look at what we, as a nation, are really searching for, and where are we headed. What is the American Dream, and what if it's reduced to a cautionary parable?

HOMEsick is produced with the generous support of the Hellenic Studies Endowment.
