Sustainability Studies

I've been trying to figure where that feeling went call it happiness or joie di vivre name it the chartreuse promise of unbridled self-invention instead, the heart's rhythmic pulsing its anxious insistence and also the way it sometimes settles and so, this acceptance a bit more cayenne on the tongue the skin's blotched redness from his grazing stubble shoes worn down by miles and days just one leather bag for a lifetime not the lion's freedom but rather the armored horseshoe crab returning to the same jagged shore for millions of years not inventing

just breathing

such questions

is the world warming?

and what might that mean?

it is unusually mild this January and last winter was the warmest on record
