Organizations

Hey they always say joining clubs makes your college experience more worthwhile, so join.

Involvement is the key to a healthy campus. The organizations make up the heart of the university. It is especially beneficial for incoming students. Freshman are more likely to do well in their classes and study habits when they have peer support. Also it gets your face seen and well-known by other students.

Organizations instill pride in our students. There is nothing better than pulling off a successful event sponsored by your club. And don’t forget, organizations are fun for the average student now, but they can also be helpful for the future. Many employers look favorably on graduates who were involved in their alumni.

There are so many clubs one can join here too. There are the many dance organizations including shag, breakdancing and swing. For religion, there is the Catholic Campus Ministry, Baptist Student Union, Wesley Student Association, etc. Diversity is one of the most celebrated parts of ODU and there are many organizations to represent that aspect as well, such as APASU, Black Student Association, Vietnamese Student Association and of course many more. If its political involvement you want, there is always the Student Senate or Model U.N. And for the writers in all of you there is the Mace-N-Crown newspaper, The Dominion Poets and of course The Laureate Yearbook. There are just so many choices including the Greeks.

So, after looking through all the organizations that ODU has on campus and you still can’t find anything to join, then start your own club. It’s easy. Anything your heart desires; from your deepest thoughts to your favorite hobbies it can be done. Check it out. Just get involved.
