The ODU Brass Choir has been performing continuously since 1972 under the direction of William Bartolotta, and since 2006, directed by Mike Hall. It plays works written specifically for brass as well as arrangements of choral, orchestral, jazz, pop and show music. Performances are regularly given on and off campus featuring student as well as guest artist soloists. The choir often divides into smaller groups to perform chamber music.

ADAM ROBLES teaches tuba and brass chamber music at Old Dominion University, Norfolk, VA. He holds a degree in tuba performance from California State University, Fullerton and performed for several years as a freelance musician on the U.S. west coast and Japan in orchestras, bands and brass chamber groups. He currently performs with the Eastern Virginia Brass Quintet and the symphony orchestras of Virginia, Richmond and Williamsburg.

MIKE HALL directs performance studies, teaches trombone/euphonium and brass chamber music at Old Dominion University and serves as Literature Reviews Editor for the International Trombone Association Journal. He previously served on the faculties of the University of Kansas and Eastern Michigan University. Dr. Hall has performed throughout North and South America, Europe and China performing a range of styles and literature with symphony orchestras, wind and chamber ensembles and as featured soloist. He also has an extensive background in commercial music backing entertainers, playing in large and small group jazz settings, and performing in theater and studio recording ensembles. He has released eight solo and chamber recordings and dozens of arrangements and reviews. Mike Hall is a C.G. Conn and Selmer Bach performing artist.
